

Everyday English & Numeracy

This course has been designed to give students confidence to use English and numeracy in everyday life situations, from

- reading and completing forms
- speaking and listening
- spelling, grammar and punctuation
- general reading and writing
- confidence to complete employment aptitude tests
- money handling skills
- basic mathematics
- measurements and directions
- English as a second language

Every individual is different and our English trainer has the skills and knowledge to assist you with whatever area you wish to improve. If English is not your first language, this course will be of additional benefit to you.

Develop skills to communicate effectively at home, at work and in the community. The course can also help you to improve your employment opportunities and/or a smooth transition into further study.
